Risk of this investment

 I hereby confirm that I am aware of the following risks of this investment:

Risk of insolvency

By this we mean the risk of the partner (issuer) being unable to pay.
Insolvency of the issuer normally results in a total loss of the investment.

Risk of total loss

By this we mean the risk that an investment becomes completely worthless.
The risk of a total loss for individual investments is correspondingly higher.

Malversation risk

By this we mean the risk that the business belonging to the partner (e.g. issuer) uncovers criminal acts committed by employees/offices. This can never be entirely excluded.
Embezzlement can damage the business of the partner directly or indirectly and even lead to insolvency.

Cluster risk

By this we mean that risk that arises when one creates no or little diversification in one's portfolio.
It is advisable not to make one investment in just a few funds.

Difficult transferability

Here we mean that the investment forms used in this case are only transferable in certain circumstances and that usually there is no market value.

I am aware that, as a rule, no market value can be portrayed for the investment forms used here and the return on capital is not always transparent.

I expressly acknowledge that the investment vehicles I have chosen after careful consideration entail both risks and potential rewards and that no promises or reliable predictions can be made regarding future returns.

CONDA AG provides no investment advice. However, insofar as I give CONDA AG an assignment, this takes place in the scope of the so-called advice-free business. In an advice-free transaction CONDA AG provides no investment advice, in particular it provides no personal product recommendation and equally no recommendations on investments.
